PREAMBLE

INRIA and ENPC (the Ecole Nationale des Ponts et Chaussées, 6-8 avenue Blaise Pascal, Cité Descartes, Champs-sur-Marne, 77455 Marne La Vallée Cedex, France) have designed and produced the PREMIA Software, Version 13, also known as PREMIA 13, for which they jointly own all the intellectual property rights.

The last paragraph of clause 5-2 "Joint Rights" of the Joint Ownership Agreement no. 3 03 D 1709 00 21148 01 1 between INRIA and ENPC concerning the PREMIA 13 Software states that:
"Special authorization is required for deeds of partial or full transfer of the SOFTWARE, deeds of alienation relating to the source code and its documentation, and for any deed not relating to the normal use of the SOFTWARE".

As distribution of the PREMIA 13 Software over the Internet requires special authorization, INRIA has requested permission from ENPC, which granted it in a letter of 16 October 2006.

The Licensee wishes to be able to use the Software for research or test purposes.

Clause 1/DEFINITIONS

Bug: any defect or non-compliance, or any failure occurring during normal use of the Software in accordance with the procedures described in the Documentation.

Derivatives: any derivative or composite works (including all related software or packages) created from the Software.

Documentation: the electronic files available at the time that the Object Code and Source Code are downloaded, containing the installation explanations and any technical explanations related to the software.

Field of Use: financial mathematics.

Licensee: the corporate body, information technology or telephone professional to whom INRIA grants a license to use its Premia 8 Software.

Object Code: the binary files resulting from the compilation of the Source Code.

Software: the PREMIA 13 Software, used to assess the coverage of equity derivatives and the calibration of financial models.
The software was registered at the French Agency for Protecting Programs (Agence pour la Protection des Programmes) under number IDDN.FR.001. 190010.010. S. C..2001.000.31000 in the name of INRIA and ENPC on March 2011.
The term "Software" means PREMIA 13 in source code and object code format, together with the associated Documentation.

Source Code: all instructions and lines of software program that need to be accessed to modify the software.

Use/User: the rights to duplicate in whole or in part, permanently or temporarily, on any present or future medium, by any means and in any form; the rights to use.

Clause 2/PURPOSE

INRIA grants the Licensee a license to use the Software on the terms and conditions defined hereafter.

Clause 3/TERM

This agreement comes into effect as soon as the Software is downloaded from the address indicated in clause 9, for a term of fifty (50) years.

Clause 4/TERRITORY

This is a worldwide license.

Clause 5/NON-EXCLUSIVITY – NON-TRANSFERABILITY

This license agreement is non-exclusive and grants the Licensee only a right of personal use. In no event may the Licensee grant a sublicense of the Software to a third party.

This license agreement is concluded intuitu personae and is therefore non-transferable. In no event may it be transferred in whole or in part to a third party either in return for remuneration or free of charge.

Clause 6/FINANCIAL TERMS

INRIA grants the license to the Licensee free of charge.

Clause 7/OWNERSHIP OF THE SOFTWARE

The Licensee recognizes that the proprietary rights to the Software are held by INRIA and ENPC and that this agreement does not entail any transfer of ownership for its own benefit. The Licensee will take all necessary measures to protect the ownership rights to the Software. It shall not delete and re-copy the mention of the source of the Software and the authors' names (PREMIA13© 2007_INRIA-ENPC). The Licensee will respect these references, whether they appear in the Object Code, the Source Code or the Documentation supplied by INRIA or in any publication referring to the Software.

The Licensee shall leave these references to the authors' names and the copyright status on the backup copy.

In the event of an attempt to seize or attach the Software or any medium containing it, the Licensee shall:
- advise INRIA immediately by registered letter with acknowledgement of receipt sent to the address indicated in clause 20 or by electronic message to the technical contact, whose address is indicated in clause 8 below,
- inform the third party of the existence of INRIA's rights over the Software.

The Licensee shall not pledge the Software rights granted under this agreement.

If the Licensee intends to industrialize and market the Software either in return for remuneration or free of charge, it must obtain express permission from INRIA in advance. Such actions will be covered by a separate agreement.

Clause 8/TECHNICAL CONTACT

INRIA will designate a technical contact to monitor this agreement. The technical contact at the time of signature will be Agnès Sulem, research director of the MATHRISK Project (agnes.sulem@inria.fr).

INRIA reserves the right to designate another technical contact at a later date. It will indicate any change on the Internet pages used to access the Software.

Clause 9/DELIVERY OF THE SOFTWARE

The Licensee can download the Software at the following address:

http://www.premia.fr

By accepting this agreement, the Licensee can download the Software directly. In case of technical problems, it should contact the technical contact indicated in clause 8 above.
INRIA cannot be held liable for the temporary or permanent unavailability of the Software access pages.

Clause 10/RIGHT OF USE OF THE SOFTWARE

The Software must be used in accordance with:
• its intended purpose, i.e. for research and/or test purposes,
• the terms and conditions of this license agreement,
• and the provisions of the Documentation.

Under the terms of article L 335-3 of the French Intellectual Property Code, the Licensee recognizes that any use not in accordance with the above provisions will constitute a violation of the right of use of the Software and therefore be an infringement of intellectual property rights.

The Licensee is prohibited from:

• making any copy other than the backup copy or those made by the Licensee to meet its own research and testing need on the Software.

• creating any Derivatives,

• distributing the results of the research and testing that it has done on the Software,

• making the Software directly or indirectly available to a third party by transfer, lease or loan either for a consideration or free of charge, or available on the Internet.

Clause 11/CORRECTION OF BUGS

The Licensee shall inform INRIA's technical contact of any Bugs that it notes while using the Software.
INRIA will decide individually whether any modifications are required to the Software.

If INRIA modifies the Software, the modified version will be governed by the terms and conditions of this license agreement.

Clause 12/CONFIDENTIALITY

The Licensee expressly agrees to treat as confidential the results of the research and testing that it has done on the Software.

Clause 13/WARRANTY

It is up to the Licensee, information technology or telephone professional to ensure that the Software's technical characteristics and features meet its needs.

INRIA hereby informs the Licensee that the Software is a prototype based on the results of its research projects and that it may therefore contain Bugs for which it cannot be held liable.

INRIA does not warrant that the Software is error-free, that it will function without interruption, that it will be compatible with the Licensee's equipment and software configuration, or that it will meet the Licensee's needs.

INRIA warrants that to the best of its knowledge the Software does not infringe any intellectual property rights belonging to third parties.

The Parties agree that INRIA is not required to provide the Licensee with a warranty service to ensure that the Software functions correctly, other than the correction of any Bugs that INRIA may make as provided for in clause 11 of this license agreement.

Clause 14/LIABILITY

As the intellectual property rights are granted free of charge, the Parties expressly agree that INRIA will in no event be held liable for any direct or indirect damages incurred by the Licensee as a result of using the Software, problems encountered during its use or the impossibility of using it.
The Licensee alone is responsible for the organization and running of the Software and for the results obtained.

Clause 15/MONITORING AND UPDATING OF THE SOFTWARE

INRIA is not responsible for monitoring the Software or maintaining it under this license agreement.
However, INRIA will keep the Licensee informed of subsequent updates via its website and may communicate them to it on agreed terms.

Clause 16/TERMINATION

INRIA reserves the right to terminate this agreement at any time.

INRIA will inform the Licensee of the termination of this agreement via an information message displayed on the website http://www.premia.fr

Two (2) weeks after the message has been displayed on the website, the Licensee will no longer be able to use the Software.

Clause 17/DESTRUCTION

In the event of the termination of the contractual relationship between the Parties for any reason or at the express request of INRIA, the Licensee shall, within one (1) month of the termination, destroy all components of the Software that have been delivered to it and inform the technical contact by email.

Clause 18/SEVERABILITY

If any provision of this agreement is deemed or declared to be invalid under applicable law or regulation or by final decision of a competent jurisdiction, the remaining provisions will remain in full force and effect.

Clause 19/APPLICABLE LAW-DISPUTES

This agreement is governed by French law. Any dispute relating to the interpretation or performance of this agreement that cannot be amicably resolved within fifteen (15) days, shall be brought before the competent French court.
